Art Unit: 2652

Claims 1 to 5 are pending.

Priority

1. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Specification

2. The title of the invention is not adequately descriptive. A new title is required that is more clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed by making reference to the silicon structure having a pair of arms with piezoelectric devices attached thereto.

Claim Objections

3. Claim 3 is objected to because of the following informalities: plural piezoelectric devices have been established so claim 3 should be modified such as be inserting -- at least one of -- after "wherein" in line 1.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Tsugai et al (U.S. 6,259,548). Tsugai discloses (figures 6 and 7) a pair of arms (7A,7B); connecting parts (9) formed integrally from single crystal silicon (column 14 – lines 60 to 65); and piezoelectric devices (14) The claim does not establish that the connecting part has to actually contact or be contiguous with both arms but just that the connecting part plays a role in connecting the arms to each other.

Art Unit: 2652

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claim 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tsugai et al. Tsugai does not expressly disclose the piezoelectric devices as being laminated piezoelectric devices. It is noted that the claim language does not make clear whether “laminated” means the piezoelectric devices are multilayer or whether “laminated” just refers to the method by which the piezoelectric devices are formed on the arms (and the piezoelectric devices could be single layer or multilayer).

Official Notice is given that it was notoriously old and well known to provide piezoelectric devices via film lamination method steps and/or to have piezoelectric devices be laminated from multiple films.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to form the piezoelectric devices of Tsugai from lamination method steps and/or to be multilayer. The motivation would have been: multilayer piezoelectric devices had been well established as being of good utility for providing microactuation effects, and for micro-devices, thin film lamination was a standard methodology for providing structures of adequately small size.

Allowable Subject Matter

8. Claim 5 is allowed. Claim 4 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

9. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Jefferson A. Evans whose telephone number is 571-272-7574. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday to Friday, 9:00am to 5:30pm.
